WHAT woman will not thrill with pleasure if Christmas brings her a beautiful Hotpoint Waffle Iron! It makes wonderful, crisp-brown waffles that melt in the mouth. Bakes both sides without turning.

ITEMS PICKED UP AROUND THE CLUB

Two of our friends are now radio salesmen, and we hear they were busy working the adjacent city of Kilkenny the other week. Oh, we find these things.

Well, our college chum Phil Scott has got out of the Horizontal Champion class, and perhaps the shoe will be on the other foot now—small time critics to the contrary.

When they get the loud speaker in the rink the shrill calls of the curlers will have to take a back seat—maybe. Saw our old friend Harry Wenger in town the other night. The years do not change Harry, he always was a "go-getter" with a wealth of humor.

This is the weather everyone was looking for, and everyone is now cursing except the curlers.

The hockey teams are now busy practicing and we will have the doubtful pleasure of going over to High River to root for the other team.

Did you hear about the golfer about to be hanged, who asked for a trial swing?

Just ten more days boys to order your Christmas cheer. Don't write Uncle at the last minute. He may not reply and that would be—oh, well.

Seeing Tommy Logan the other day recalled pleasant memories. Too bad Tommy is now a dyed-in-the-wool High River resident. Quite an error of judgment, I'd say.

No kidding to get no ashes to cart away, no coal to carry—when we get the gas. Who could wish for more perfect bliss.

Did you hear the one of Scotsman who listening to a church service in Calgary last Sunday switched off when the offering was being taken up? Well, that's as true as any other Scotch story.

Father—"Billie, I'm afraid I'll never see you in Heaven!" Billie—"Gee dad, what's been doin' now!"

The boss and yours truly wish to remind you all that we do not accept Christmas presents in solid form, ties, suspenders, etc., are taboo. Oh, yes!

NOVELTY DANCE IS SUCCESS

At the novelty dance held in Alston hall under the auspices of the Alston Junior U.F.F., the following were the prize winners: waltz, Mrs. Ed. Lawrence and Mr. L. H. White; one step, Mrs. O. Anderson and Mr. W. W. Isaacson; fox trot, Miss M. Straughan and Mr. M. G. Lowder; balloon dance Miss T. Straughan.

The Vulcan Melody Five provided music and a thoroughly enjoyable time was experienced by all present.

The judges were: Mrs. Straughan, Mr. D. H. Galbraith and Mr. Ed. Melton.

MRS. HATTIE BISHOP IS LAID TO REST

The death of Mrs. Hattie Bishop occurred on Tuesday, December 3 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jack Thompson, High River. Mrs. Bishop had been ill for some months, and two weeks ago came over from Vulcan to be with her daughter. She was sixty-two years of age, and had lived in the Vulcan and Reid Hill districts since 1910, during which time she had formed many friendships. Her birthplace was Canaan, Vermont. Besides Mrs. Thompson, a son also is left to mourn her loss, his home being in Coquille, Oregon.

Funeral services were held from the Union Church at Vulcan on Thursday afternoon, December 5 at 3 p.m. The sympathy of all friends is extended to Mrs. Thompson in her bereavement.

Bearers were: George Green, W. Rennals, Pete McIntyre, L. Seaman, Percy Myers and Ed. Syngue.

Many beautiful floral tributes were sent from the deceased many friends in the Vulcan, Reid Hill and High River districts.

Mr. Frank Liebfried left last week for Lancaster, Wisconsin where he will spend the winter with his mother.

ARROWOOD APPEAL ALLOWED

The Supreme Court of Canada on Monday allowed with costs the appeal by David M. Wilson from a judgment of the supreme court of Alberta which had rendered a decision in favor of Milton H. Ward.

The parties were engaged in a business near Arrowwood, Alberta. The dispute arose over a transfer of land. The trial judge held the agreement to transfer was a mortgage and that Wilson was entitled to redeem the land. The appellate division allowed an appeal from this judgment and held that the transaction was a sale. The supreme court of Canada restores the judgment of the trial judge.

An executive was appointed, consisting of Geo. Munro, president; C. McGinnis, vice-president; Don Devereaux, secretary-treasurer.

A number of boys registered for play and there appears to be some excellent players among them this year. With Colin McGinnis as manager and Allan Murray acting as coach there is a very promising line-up available for the season. With good coaching and a few stiff practices Vulcan will be in store for some very good games.

A number of teams on the Aldersyde-Lethbridge line have organized teams and a meeting will be called of executives from each team. Details of this meeting and further comments on the progress of the team will appear in a later edition of this paper.

HENRY EMIL HORN DIES IN CALGARY

To the regret of many friends in this district Henry Emil Horn passed away in Calgary on Thursday of last week.

Deceased, who was born in Stavely in 1901, has been farming east of Vulcan for some time and is well and favorably known in the locality. He left three weeks ago for Golden, B.C., was there taken sick and removed to Calgary where he, unfortunately, succumbed after an operation for appendicitis.

He leaves to mourn: his father, mother, and two sisters who are now visiting in Germany with the grandparents of deceased, also a brother, Emil, who resides in Vulcan.

Full bearers were: Lester Jordan, Ross McIntyre, Gordon Chapman, Willie Bowie, Virgil and Alex. Sharman.

BERRYWATER U. F. W. A.

The annual meeting took place at the home of Mrs. I. N. McLean on November 27, and there was a good attendance of members. All business and accounts for the past year were settled, and the annual report was read by the retiring secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Mills, to whom, as also to the retiring president, Mrs. W. Oldfield, a hearty vote of thanks was given for their splendid services to this local. The officers for the coming year are: President, Mrs. N. Campbell; vice president, Mrs. McLean (re-elected); Sec.-Treas., Mrs. Clifford Love; Directors, Mrs. Mills (during whose absence Mrs. Noble acts as deputy), Mrs. Oldfield and Mrs. F. Mensinger.

The several conveners are: Health, Mrs. B. Mensinger; Co-operative Marketing, Mrs. Noble; Immigration, Mrs. D. B. Sims; Peace and Arbitration, Mrs. F. Mensinger; Education, Mrs. Oldfield; Legislation, Mrs. H. Amey; and Representatives to the Rest Room and School Fair meetings, Mrs. L. A. Douglas and Mrs. Oldfield.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served lunch. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. It was decided to study four branches this year, the following members to act as chairman: Legislation, Mrs. Parsons; Immigration, Mrs. Underwood; Agriculture, Mrs. Nelson; Canadianization and National Events, Mrs. K. Dole; Scribe, Mrs. S. Hemingway.

Various ways of raising money were discussed.

Mrs. Crick was appointed to act as delegate on the Rest Room committee.

Next meeting to be at the home of Mrs. Tuttle on January 9th. Tea collection $1.40.

Mrs. Louie Hanson of Okotoks was in Vulcan, Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hubbard's baby.

A letter from Mr. Charles A. Grant on "Two Great Extremes in Industrial Practice" is unavoidably held over.

NEW VIEW OF 1776

In keeping with the diplomatic and peace making wave that is sweeping over the world, Professor Van Tyne leading American authority in history, is re-interpreting the War of Independence in such a way as to cost a much kinder light on the whole episode. Even old George III, it is considered, has heretofore been treated unjustly.

While the Mayor of Chicago will have a fit over this new and authentic treatment of the War of Independence, Professor Van Tyne's work is regarded with respect by American teachers of history. And his dispassionate treatment of the friction between Britain and the colonies will have many followers.

A few years ago he produced evidence to show that the liberal mind of English-speaking people were not banded against the demands of the American colonies but were in sympathy. There was sympathy on the part of such men as Burke, Pitt, Camden and others. The common Britishers held the war in abhorrence, the merchants dreaded a conflict.

In his more recent work, he shows that George III and Lord North were living up to the responsibilities supposedly inherent to their office. They could not consent to a total severing of the ties with the Colonies in the light of the duties of rulers and statesmen of their time.

Professor Van Tyne says: "A calm investigation today of each charge against King George III leaves that worthy man with a much whiter record than his American subjects granted him. The King had duties to perform and he acted naturally in the light of the past conduct of mankind." The war of 1776 is shown in new perspective.

NOT MENTALLY WEAK

"Why do public speakers so often make the mistake of talking down to their audience?" was a question recently asked. This on consideration, is a pitfall into which many able speakers are apt to stumble. They underestimate the intelligence and carrying capacity of the average audience, and in their desire to furnish a light palatable dose of their real message, all too often leave their hearers disappointed.

Nowadays, the so-called average audience is reasonably well informed. People can scarcely avoid it. They may not think as deeply as their fathers, but they are obliged to think more widely.

When they attend a public meeting it is to learn something to gain information on some definite subject. If the speaker makes an obvious effort to entertain them, and to spare them any heavy thinking they are disappointed. They are not especially keen on jokes, colloquialisms and froth. These can be secured elsewhere. They crave meat.

So the public speaker of today need have no qualms about giving the best he has to his audience. As a rule it can be depended upon to follow him fairly closely. And the best compliment a speaker can pay his hearers is to treat them as being possessed of adult mentality.

Importations that do not comply with this regulation are subject to an entry penalty of 10 per cent in addition to the regular duty of 22 1/2 per cent, and will not be released until they have all the necessary markings which must be made by the importer under customs supervision. Envelopes brought into the country are subject to a tax of 35 per cent, and in the use of a mixed consignment of Christmas cards and envelopes the higher duty of 35 per cent, will be levied.

"DON'T DODGE IT"

Debt is a horrid thing—a monster whose presence can make a life miserable and unhappy. It has been so easy to "make purchases and say "charge it." The future is always hopeful and to leave obligations to be met at a future time is sometimes necessary but in the great majority of cases quite unnecessary. It is not fair to any tradesman to keep him waiting for his money and the price of his goods must give him a margin large enough to carry unpaid debts. It all comes back on the consumer in the end. The chain stores that demand cash on receipt of goods are able to eliminate the margin that the independent retailer must carry. These stores are also teaching housewives the beauty of "pay as you go." Then, too, one learns to buy more discreetly and sensibly if hard cash enters concretely into the transaction. Especially now as the Christmas season approaches we should keep this in mind and not be paying our Christmas debts in the New Year.

A UNIQUE INSTITUTION

A newspaper is the most unique institution in the world. It is the only business enterprise, conducted upon business lines and in a perfectly legitimate manner, which actually serves the progressive life of the city, town, country, state and the nation, more than all other institutions of the country, and this service is rendered without a cent of cost to them. It is still more peculiar in that regardless of the profit it makes for itself, it makes even more profit to those whom it serves.

Our old friend, J. D. Ferguson, formerly of Kincardine, Ont., now a well-known race horse owner, is a lucky devil. He recently purchased three lots in Saskatoon at a non-payment of tax sale, and later found himself owner of the Wesley United Church. If he occupies the pulpit, he should draw a full house.

OUR CRIME CLASS

The relation of immigration to crime in Canada is discussed in a recent report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The finding should prompt us to consider whether we are paying too high a price for our immigrant population under present conditions of entry into this country.

Statistics covering the penitentiary population of Canada in 1921 show that the problem of law enforcement with respect to major crimes and offenses was four times greater for the foreign born than for the Canadian born, and nearly three times greater among the foreign born than among the British born. The figures for 1921 show that for every 100,000 of our corresponding population there were in the penitentiaries in that year 19 Canadian born, 27 British born and 75 foreign born.

An analysis by specified "nativity groups" show that the greatest percentage of our criminals come from Latin and Greek countries, the rate per 100,000 of corresponding population being 290. South Eastern and Central Europe followed with a rate of 185, then Slav countries with 161. The United States followed with a rate of 159 law-breakers per 100,000 of corresponding population; but this high rate is not attributed to the settler, but rather to the temporary visitors to Canada of professional criminals from that country. The Germanic, the North Western European, and the Scandinavian countries had rates of 68, 59 and 42, respectively.

By individual countries the five foreign countries which contributed the highest to our penitentiaries were: Italy, with 337 criminals per 100,000 of our Italian-born population; Austria, with 273; Rumania, with 209; Poland, with 182, and Russia with 144.

IMMIGRATION

Apropos of the refusal of Canada to accommodate and welcome the bands of Russian Mennonites, the Country Guide comments on immigration.

"Public opinion in Canada is changing, rapidly and profoundly, as to what the immigration policy of this country should be. A few years ago, the weight of public opinion was for more and still more people to develop our natural resources, and assume a share of the public debt. Organized labor was never under any illusions. Immigration of artisans meant more competition and they opposed it effectively. Therefore the quest for people who would go on the land.

"In the meantime agricultural change. Machinery has displaced human labor at undreamed of speed. Production was increasing, without any great increase of people.

"The present tendencies in Western Canada show that natural increase, except for such as immigrate on their own financial responsibility are quite adequate.

The farmers of the prairies now believe that not another dollar should be spent on the aggressive search for immigrants.

"The majority are also opposed to the wholesale importation of those whose customs and beliefs prevent them from being absorbed into the general social structure of the community.

"At present the duty of the Dominion and Provincial Governments seems clear. Admit only those refugees with relatives already here who will assume full responsibility for their maintenance.

"The humanitarian aspect of the problem should not be allowed to confuse the issue. Thousands are being taken care of by public and private charity already in Canada."

BEAT THE WINTER

You can store cauliflower successfully by digging a ditch 12 or 15 inches deep and about a foot wide in a well-drained part of your garden, then packing your cauliflower with hay or straw down to the roots, then covering this down with boards or stones. This method will keep the cauliflower in perfect condition till March, when it probably will bring a better price.

FARMERS!

ATTENTION! Agriculture is expanding rapidly in Western Canada these days, and farmers are demanding increased capacity in the power-operated machines used with their tractor. It is a waste of fuel, time and money to operate a tractor with a machine that is only a half or three quarters load for it. In order to keep pace with the changing need, the Harvester Company is introducing the last word in grain drills. The big drill enables each owner to take full advantage of his surplus tractor power or stones, and at the same time he has a machine which is just as easy to handle as the small sizes.

MERLAND TESTS

That Merland No. 1 well is pouring out 14,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, that the gas is wet, that the well is a commercial producer were three important facts in connection with Turner Valley's latest well, Thursday last. F. D. Lundy, managing director made that announcement after his return from the valley with J. H. McLeod, vice-president of the Royaltie Company, and other officials of that organization. At the request of Mr. Lundy, the Royaltie Oil Company officers consented to inspect the well with a view to determining its potentialities. A measurement of the gas flow was made and an absorption test also, with the very satisfactory results mentioned in the foregoing sentences. The discoveries were the more pleasing in that the well showed a definite increase in the volume of gas as compared with Wednesday when the measured flow was 12,500,000 cubic feet. The gas was found to be "sweet" that is free from sulphur. Further, Mr. McLeod informed the managing director of the Merland Company that the well was in splendid condition. Mr. Lundy confirms that it is cased down to the Dalhousie sands where the flow of gas is coming and is cemented firmly. The diameter of the casing into the producing formation is 8 1/2 inches.

"No official statement can be made," said Mr. Lundy, "as to whether the well is blowing crude oil or naphtha with the gas. That will remain to be determined when the separators are hooked up. There are three of these separators now on the ground and it is expected they will be in position and connected shortly. If Turner Valley produces 131,086 barrels of naphtha and crude oil during December, the total production for 1929 will have reached 1,000,000 barrels, eclipsing the production for any previous year in the history of the famous oil field.

SHOW HIM THE DOOR

A subscriber's enquiry as to the value of certain oil stocks, on which a salesman promises fifteen per cent. per annum, indicates that the vultures are again at their wretched trade and that the lesson of the recent cataclysm on the stock exchanges has not yet been learned. The fact cannot be too strongly stressed that no reputable concern offering stock for sale makes any definite promises as to profits. Not all oil stocks are of the wildcat variety but the majority offered for sale in the rural districts are, and should be avoided like a plague. The salesman who offers stock for sale with a promise of fifteen per cent. interest on the investment should be unceremoniously shown the door.—Farmers Sun.

GAME OF LIFE

Splendid Advice Offered by one who Knows Whereof he Speaks

Our friend Joe Price, rugby coach, in addressing his youthful gridiron team, at a banquet the other day, drew an analogy between the game of football and the game of life. He gave as rules for both games: don't flinch; don't foul, hit the line hard.

A bit of advice was also given which has direct application to all true sportsmanship:

"As you grow older you will find that in the game of life a certain section of the crowd on the sidelines puts a premium on poor sportsmanship. 'Get that man! Kill him! Kill him!' the crowd cries. That is a primal instinct. But the fellow worth while—the man whose achievements you remember, is the one who has learned that the greatest lesson of sport is self control. The instinct to revert to savagery in sport as well as in life is natural. The ability to control one's self despite this primitive urge for revenge and the ability to go ahead, play the game and win by fair means, is the test of true greatness, both in the game of rugby and the game of life."

TOPSY TURVEY WORDS

Words used with a certain meaning in modern times, have in many cases started life with an entirely different significance.

"Crafty" and "artful" are two examples of words which have somewhat changed. Nowadays, if a man had these words applied to him, he would be annoyed, yet little more than a century ago, he would have felt highly honored, as these same terms would have meant that he was skilful at some particular craft.

Another word which has degenerated strangely in significance is "idiot." To begin with, an idiot was merely a private person, as distinguished from one holding office. Later the word came to mean one who did not hold office, because he was not considered fit.

"Heathen" was originally one who lived on a heath. The early Christians lived mostly in walled towns, and the wild dwellers on the moorland heaths were the last to abandon their old gods. So the term heathen.

"Parson" and "person" are originally the same word. In England, the letter "e" was formerly pronounced as "a." The village clergyman was the most socially prominent individual and became known as "the person."

Henry Ford has reproduced an old-fashioned village at Dearborn. We know a few Canadian aldermen who will try to do the same thing with their own town if elected.

NO CRIME IN P.E.I.

Even Divorce is Unknown and Thugs Steer Clear of That Province

An article appears in the December American magazine which quite explains why certain of our citizens have been high-hatting the rest of us lately, and acting sort of aloof and superior.

The article is on "Prince Edward Island, where there is no crime and no divorce," and the Islanders in our midst have been reading about their native heath.

The story makes delightful reading not only for those who are Island born, but for all Western Canadians who unhappily know too little of these far-flung reaches of the Dominion.

"No crime and no divorce," is only a part of the story. Unemployment? There is none. Poverty? Almost non-existent. There are no highway-men, no thugs and bandits. Total regular police force of the Island numbers 13 men. There is no penitentiary. There has not been an execution in forty years. (Did you make a remark old timer? Well, be that as it may, they've been there right since they came here haven't they?).

The Island has more railroads per square mile, more post offices, more telegraph lines and more churches and its people have more money in the savings bank, per capita than those of any other Canadian province. Progressive, prosperous and up-to-date, enjoying the newest comforts of modern life and luxuries, the 88,000 folks of this island go nightly to their beds, untroubled by those dark problems which are keeping our own police sociologists and preachers awake."

In sketching its history of industry and upright living, the writer introduces many names of Dominion leaders who have been born on the Island. Throughout the story are woven the family names of many of our own High River citizens. For that reason and as a little bit of Canadian contemporary history it is well worth anyone's while to read the article.

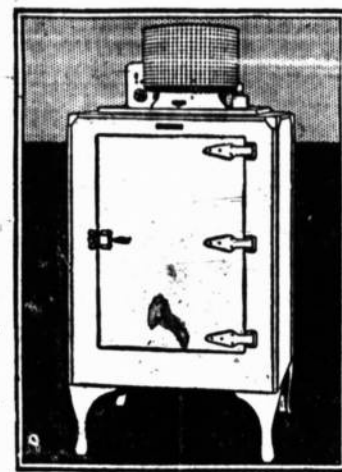

However, there is not a December American, purchasable in town. All sold out. Perhaps by taking the proper gestures, you could persuade one of the Islanders to lend you his copy overnight. But hurry back with it.

A Challenge to Canadian Food Producers...

Great Britain wants more Canadian foodstuffs. The plain fact is that the increase in trade in some of our food exports to the old country is not keeping pace with the growth of demand.

Britain's markets are wide open to Canada. Because of the exhibitions of Canadian products, the activity of our Trade Commissioners, and the effects of our advertising, the British consumer is more familiar with these products than ever before, and consequently more inclined to buy. Good will in Great Britain towards Canadian products never has been at a higher point than now. All the facilities of transportation for all classes of products from Canada to Great Britain have been provided.

Shall we Canadians overlook or neglect the opportunities for increased export trade which are thus laid before us?

Just because domestic markets are so good, shall we as producers be so short sighted as to fail to satisfy a large market which is more favourably inclined towards our products than ever before?

Not yet is there among our producers an adequate realization of the opportunities for increased production which present conditions in the British markets afford.

If you are a producer or dealer in foodstuffs, you can assist to your own profit in gaining a larger share of this market. Almost every community in this country stands to benefit. The result can be attained by:

1. Producing more of the kind of products the British consumer wants.
2. Keeping up a constant supply.
3. Maintaining quality standards.

Through its Commercial Intelligence Service, this Department will render valuable assistance to any exporter. Our Trade Commissioners' Offices in Britain are especially well-equipped and strategically placed to handle any export problem on behalf of Canadian exporters. Enquiries regarding British Trade receive prompt attention. Write to the Commercial Intelligence Service, Ottawa.

HENRY FORD CHAMP

Broke More Wrists, Caused More
Profanity and Gave More Value
For Our Money

Will Rogers picks Henry Ford as the Grand All Round Champion of the ages, because while Washington, Shakespeare, Napoleon and these other fellows were great enough in certain lines, Henry tops them all in all-round accomplishment.

"He is like Brigham Young, a believer in mass production.

"He is responsible for more building than any man in the world. There is more money invested in garages than in schools and churches. Every automobile has a roof over it. Yet millions of humans are living with the old moon hitting them in the face every night.

"He has caused more dirty dishes to be left in the sink after supper than all the leading men in the movies.

"He has broke more wrists than all the Osteopaths in the world.

"He has caused more profanity than Congress and Senate combined.

"He has given more value for the least money. A marriage certificate and a Ford are the two cheapest things known. Both lead to an ambition for something better.

"He has fixed it so the poor can go as fast as the rich if the road is narrow.

"He has made it possible for city people to see a cow—maybe hit her.

"Hoover may have fed the Belgians, but it was uncle Henry that gave them a ride.

"He has pulled more high priced cars out of the mud than all horses and mules combined.

"Edison is great, he gave us electric light. But Ford fixed it so we wouldn't have to stay home and use it. I don't know who gave us the radio-announcer, but it is Ford that got us out of hearing of him.

"Columbus discovered a new world, but the old tin lizzie has made us discover America.

"There are 300,000 men in America alone pumping gas into cars every minute of the day; 195,000 fixing punctures; 800,000 looking on; 750,000 offering advice.

"He made a car that runs with your feet instead of your head and hands, because most people know how to use their feet.

"He has had more influence on the lives, habits and customs of man and beast than all these wise men. Many men have made laws. Many have made speeches, but no one has ever moved humanity like Henry.

"Not only did he move 'em, but they know they have been to a moving all right. If there had never been a Ford car, there would never have been a cheap car. They would have been luxuries."

The Sunlight Oil Company has been taken over by Mercury Oils. These wells are in the south end of the Turner Valley field and is near the famous Merland well.

Feasting at Christmas

JOHAN BULL has cause to look with pride on his Christmas board laden with rich and tempting fare from roast turkey or goose or sirloin to plum-pudding and mince pies. But his pride—justifiable as it is—would be a little subdued if he could look on at the Christmas dinner enjoyed by his forefathers of past centuries.

The Christmas dinner of those days of old was a banquet indeed—a perfect revel of feasting, accompanied by a ceremonial worthy of such a high occasion.

Watch the imposing entry of the boar's head, heralded by a flourish of trumpets, borne aloft on a dish of gold or silver by the server, who, as he enters the banquet-hall with his escort of nobles, knights, and fair ladies, sings his "Caput apri deferat, Reddens laudes Domino."

In the wake of this lordly dish, decked with "sweet rosemary and bays," follows the peacock, "food for lovers and meat for lords," with gilt beak and gay-colored plumage. To the strains of music it is borne into the hall by the fairest lady-guest, with her retinue of ladies almost as fair as herself.

And these are but the heralds of the feast, which includes geese and pheasants, capons and pies of carps' tongues, hams and sirloins, and so on, through the long and succulent list of Christmas fare, to turnery, plum-pudding and mince-pies of gargantuan proportions, until the table literally groans under its wealth of seasonable fare. As for the drinks, they range from mead and ale, "so old that it is almost sweet and treacly," to the bowls of wassail, with cherries and crabapples bobbing gaily on their steaming surface.

For many a century the boar's head was the piece de resistance of the Briton's Christmas dinner, and it was fitting that such a noble and historic dish should make its appearance with due ceremonial.

"Sweet rosemary and bays around it spread;
His foaming tusks with some large pippin graced,
Or midst those thundering spears an orange placed,
Sauce like himself, offensive to its foes,
The roguish mustard, dangerous to the nose."

For centuries, too, the peacock ranked in dignity and favor next to the boar's head. To prepare it for this high festival was an elaborate process calling for much skill. "The skin," we are told, "was first carefully stripped off, with the plumage adhering; the bird was then roasted. When cooked and partially cold it was sewed up again in its feathers, its beak was gilt and so sent to table."

Sometimes the whole body was covered with gold leaf, and a piece of cotton, saturated with spirits, placed in the beak and lighted before the carver commenced operations. It was stuffed with plenty of sweet herbs, basted with yolks of eggs, and served with sauce of gravy. It was over this splendid dish that the knight of old swore to undertake any perilous enterprise that came in his way, and to succor lovely woman in distress even at the cost of his life.

Another indispensable dish of these old-time feasts was frumenty or turnery, a concoction of "wheat, clean fresh broth, and sweet milk of almonds," and served with fat venison or fresh mutton. Plum-pudding, the progenitor of the succulent plum-pudding of our day, which was always served with the first course of a Christmas dinner, was made by "boiling beef or mutton with broth, thickened with brown bread. When half boiled, raisins, currants, prunes, cloves, mace and ginger were added; and when the mess had been thoroughly boiled it was sent to table with the best meats."

Such was the Christmas dinner in castle and hall in the "good old days" of Merrie England. And while lord and squire were thus feasting the poor man's heart was made glad in the kitchen. "I allow," says Sir Roger de Coverley, "a double quantity of malt to my small beer, and set it running for twelve days to everyone that calls for it. I have always a piece of cold beef and a mince-pie upon the table; and am wonderfully pleased to see my tenants pass away a whole evening in playing their innocent tricks and snuttling one another." And with such seductive lure to the hall, you may be sure that the villagers at the park-gates were not the folk to allow snow-drifts to bar their way to the nut-brown ale, the joints of cold beef, and the fun and frolic that were their accompaniment.

The straight-laced Puritans of Cromwell's time frowned on such feasting and merry-making as a profanation of a holy season. And, curiously enough, the chief objects of their detestation were the plum-pudding and mince-pies. As a rhymester puts it—

The high-shoe lords of Cromwell's making
Were not for dainties—roasting, baking;
The chiefest bowl they found most good in
Was rusty bacon and bag pudding;
Plum broth was Popish, and mince-pie—
O that was flat idolatry!

Happily mince-pies and plum-pudding (in its successor, plum-pudding) survived this stern disapproval and are ours to feast on to-day. But the boar's head and the peacock have practically vanished from our Christmas board.

But Yuletide feasting of the past was not all of this magnificent and orthodox character. For example, a Christmas banquet in Charles I.'s time included such novel fare as a "soup of snails, a dish of green fish buttered with eggs, a rabbit stuffed with oysters, and a sphragme tart"—all doubtless excellent fare, especially when accompanied by ale, surfeit-water, Canary, sack and Gascony wine.

More appealing to our modern tastes would have been the dinner to which Pepys sat down on Christmas Day, 1658, which consisted of "A dish of marrow-bones, a leg of mutton and a loin of veal, three pullets and a dozen larks, all in a great dish. Also a great tart, a neat's tongue, a dish of anchovies and prawns, and cheese."

And what hungry Briton of to-day would not hail a Christmas pie like that provided for his guests in 1770 by a Sir Henry Grey. "It was," we read, "nine feet in circumference, weighed 165 pounds, and contained among other ingredients four geese, two turkeys, two rabbits, four wild-ducks, two snipe, seven blackbirds, and half a dozen pigeons." This leviathan pie, we are told, "was brought round at table on a four-wheeled specially constructed truck."

Best of All Yule Cheer

CHRISTMAS—the friendliest, jolliest season of all the year, when folks naturally suffer from that good old-fashioned malady—enlargement of the heart! With the sweet winds of festivity blowing at will through city and suburb, down ancestral chimneys and across snow-carpeted prairie, rich and poor alike respond to their caress. With rigid conventions relaxed under the spell of the Yuletide, merriment is provoked upon the slightest provocation. Let the bag of nuts that the bachelor is carrying break its bounds, and litter the floor of the street car, spontaneous laughter ripples through the trolley and strangers are chatting together with the intimacy of neighbors.

Touched by the breath of geniality, sympathetic chords are loosened and a hundred eyes dim with tears as pedestrians witness the tragedy of a curly-headed, blue-eyed baby doll slip from its wrappings and crash to the pavement, with the shabbily dressed woman stooping in confusion to gather up the fragments. Blind beggars, with their ears tuned to the sweetest melody in all the world—the dropping of nickels and dimes into their tin cups—listen throughout the Christmastide to a symphony of silver coin. Apartment house dwellers, with a world all its own abiding under one roof, wax friendly at a glimpse of the tinsel-hung tree across the corridor. At the Yuletide there is no need of an introduction and upcountry, who couldn't make the home journey in a week-end, will never forget the kindness of the employer who invited her to share the merrymaking in his own home. The university boy will never forget how the folk at the church had entreated him to come and help them eat up the turkey on Christmas Day—assuring him it would be a real kindness to keep them company over Yuletide. It was like the Christmases of long ago, the kitchen filled with spicy odors and the girl-wife from down the street making the

CHRISTMAS is a time of secrets,
So I'll whisper one to you,
Grandpa says that all who try it,
Find that every word is true,
"Would you have a happy day?
Give some happiness away."

Should be carried through the year,
And if all would try to heed it,
Earth would soon be full of cheer, you find yourself exchanging hearty greetings with the fellow you've bumped into daily in the restaurant, but with whom you haven't the slightest personal acquaintance.

In the cities, where strangeness and aloneness are taken for granted, it is during the Yuletide that the friendly hand-clasp is accepted as the best gift of the season. The little stenographer from dinner in the old folks' kitchen, setting the table with her own snowy cloth, dainty bride's china and silver. In the gloaming when the old people with the young folk sat down before the crackling fire, the girl-wife's hand clasping the old woman's toil-stained palm, it was vividly clear to both of them that it was the "much-needed hand-clasp" that was best of that Christmas merrymaking.

F. M. ANDERSON & Co.NOT BORN EQUAL

"It is as impossible to train a Clyde colt to be a race horse as to take a child and educate him to do anything beyond, or different from his capacities," says Dr. Scott, superintendent of Calgary school.

"The capacities of every child are fixed at birth and the modern educator's problem is to find atmosphere and equipment that will bring out the inborn capacities."

"The really effective education is that which takes place within the individual. It is a real self education."

HALT EVICTIONS

The tremendous power of the Canadian Legion was demonstrated at the Regina convention last week when their representatives, in committee with Major Ashton, chairman of the Settlement Board, secured from him an agreement to hold up all eviction and cancellation proceedings against soldier settlers in arrears until spring.

At that time the Legion hopes to be ready with legislative action. Many soldiers in Alberta and B. C. have been facing eviction and this ruling gives them a breathing space with hope of further relief in the spring.

SANTA CLAUS FUND

Sunshine Needs Aid in Relieving Distress. All Who Can, Should Assist.

An organization which is working twelve months in the year and particularly during the cold weather months to help those in distress, is the Calgary Herald Sunshine Santa Claus Fund. Every year at this time an appeal is made to contribute to the fund and assistance is sought, not only in the city of Calgary, but throughout the province for the reason that the Sunshine Society helps to relieve suffering in various parts of Alberta, as well as in the city of Calgary. Sunshine has been functioning for eighteen years and in that period has relieved the distress of thousands. It is a good thing for Alberta that such an organization exists because there are many cases which cannot be assisted through official sources and yet, if the cases are not helped, the suffering would be intense. Those who are in the happy position where their lives are comfortable are invited to consider the plight of those who lack the common necessities of life and are invited to show their warm-heartedness through the medium of contributions to the Sunshine Society.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT

A man with an intimate knowledge of the wheat situation throughout the world who recently returned from Europe says Canadian wheat at present filling the giant elevators at different points will be moving shortly to the great British market. He declared that statistics he had gathered on the world's wheat supply pointed toward big purchases of Canadian wheat before the 1930 crop. Argentine crop reports show that the yield there is lower than last year and while continental countries show increases, these increases are considerably less than the shortages in Canada. He looks for big prices the coming spring.

A contemporary recommends to his readers that every car owner when starting his car should be sure that the gauge doors are open. This is particularly sane advice at this time of year when the cold morning air might have a tendency to make one leave the doors closed. There is deadly danger in starting a car with the doors shut, due to the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning. More than one man has paid the penalty for forgetfulness in this respect.

The nearness of Christmas is forcibly brought to us by the remarkable display of suitable gifts for the Yuletide season at our various stores. This happy time which should be the merriest of the year is often a worry and trial to the woman in the home. As a general rule we are all prone to leave until the eleventh hour shopping that should be done before, and the last minute rush frays the nerves of shopkeepers as well as shoppers. The buying of Christmas presents is tolerably easy today as a result of the careful display by our merchants of articles that make acceptable gifts. Do your shopping now.

The League of Nations may be asked to intervene in the case of the thousands of Mennonites now being deported from Moscow to Siberia by the Soviet government on the ground that their presence constituted a danger to public health. Four thousand will be settled in Germany on the German Polish frontier. But many of them will not be able to withstand the Siberian winter.

Since Canada is not favorable toward the bringing over of these immigrants in great numbers, it is suggested that the League of Nations should make some arrangements for them for the winter.
